The Noh Oratorio Society performs at National Poetry Week II

If last year's event was any indication, National Poetry Week II promises to attract capacity crowds to see and hear some of the most exciting poets of our times. This ten-day celebration of language features 25 major events and the words of more than 150 poets and performers. Some of those participating: Anne Waldman, Edith Jenkins, Maya Angelou, James Broughton, Jerome Rothenberg, the Noh Oratorio Society, Herman Berlandt, Neeli Cherkovski, Diane Di Prima and Etheridge Knight. Besides the evening poetry readings, there will be daily presentations with titles such as Women's Poetry, Native American Poetry, Hispanic Poetry, Poetry Films, Prison Poetry, Poetry and Healing, Asian American Poetry, Poetry and Dance, Appreciation of the Translator, The Business of Poetry, and more. National Poetry Week II begins on October 14 and runs through the 23rd. Admission to the daily presentations is $5-$3; evening readings are $7-$5. For more information on times and events, call 621-3073.

Magic Theatre begins its 1988-89 season with the Bay Area premiere of Talk Radio, a scathing satire about an abrasive phone-in radio show host. Written by performance artist Eric Bogosian, this play comes straight from a successful Broadway run. John Lion will direct the Magic Theatre production. Talk Radio runs October 19 through December 24 in the Southside Theater. Admission is $18-$13.50. For more information or reservations, call the Magic Theatre box office at 441-8822.

Now in its third season, Life On The Water continues to bring the best in contemporary performance works to San Francisco. To start off the month, juggler/comic Frank Olivier stars in a one-man show called On the Edge, combining theater, music and dance with his own uniquely twisted sense of humor. The second show will be Dress Suits to Hire, a new work by Obie award-winning lesbian satirist Holly Hughes. On the Edge runs September 7 through October 2. Dress Suits to Hire will run October 5 through 29. Both shows play Wednesday through Sunday, with admission at $15-$8. Call 885-2790 for more information and reservations.

Fort Mason's newest theater group is the Young Performers Theatre. This month, YPT presents a production of Peter and the Wolf, featuring drama, dance and a live youth orchestra. There will also be matinee performances of Trunk Tales, an improvisational audience-participation show. Trunk Tales can be seen every Saturday from September 10 through October 8 at 1pm, with all tickets at $5. Peter and the Wolf runs from October 15 through November 6, Saturdays at 1pm and 3:30pm, Sundays at 1pm only. Tickets range from $6 to $4. Call 346-5550 for more information.

Throughout the year the San Francisco Playwrights' Center holds weekly readings of new scripts. In September and October they will host a series of special showcase productions of one-acts and excerpts by member playwrights. The presentations will run from September 30 through October 15, Fridays and Saturdays at 7:30pm. Admission is $5. For more information on the schedule of plays, call 928-4451.

One of Fort Mason's oldest resident groups, Plowshares Coffeehouse has become an institution in the Bay Area folk music scene. This month Plowshares will present three Sunday concerts. October 9 will feature recording artist Bill Staines, who has been described as "a one-person folk festival." On October 16 Bruce Foreman and Madeline Eastman host an evening of hedonistic jazz. Finally, on the 23rd, Plowshares presents a special evening of eclectic music with guitar virtuoso Duck Baker. All shows begin at 7:30pm with an admission of $7. Call 441-8910.

Bruce Forman appears with Madeline Eastman at Plowshares Coffeehouse

The Cajun Zydeco Music, Dance and Food Festival returns for a second year's engagement in Fort Mason's Pier 3. The festival will celebrate Louisiana's Cajun and Creole culture with a wide array of music, dance, food and crafts. Featured performers include Michael Doucet and Beausoleil, Al Rapone and the Zydeco Express, Dewey Balsa, The Louisiana Cajun Trio, and many more. The festival will take place Saturday and Sunday, October 8 and 9, from noon until 8pm. Admission is $12.50 for tickets sold in advance, $23 for a special two-day ticket, and $15-$10 at the door (children under 12 free). For more information on the event, call 243-0128.

SF FALL ANTIQUES SHOW

The seventh annual San Francisco Fall Antiques show will fill Fort Mason's Pier 3 with a broad range of displays representing all styles and periods, including American, English, Continental, and Oriental furnishings, silver, rugs, glass and fine art.

This year, the loan exhibit is "Masterworks of Art Deco from Cartier," an extraordinary collection from one of the world's most celebrated jewelers. It will feature fascinating mystery clocks, and jewelry including the Duchess of Windsor's fabulous panther brooch.

The lecture series includes two panels: "Decorating with Antiques" and "Antiques in the Garden."

The Antiques Show was established in 1982 as the major fundraising event for Enterprise for High School Students, a nonprofit job referral and career development agency for San Francisco high school students.

The show runs from October 26 through 30, with a preview party on Wednesday at 6:30pm, and public showings on Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 10am to 7pm, and Sunday from noon to 6pm. General admission is $10; lectures are $8. Group rates are available. For more information, call 921-1411.

HIKARI

Acclaimed Japanese sculptor Hayashi Biko brings his innovative stainless steel artworks to the United States for the first time in a one-man show at Fort Mason's Pier 2 this month.

During his stay in San Francisco, Hayashi will also offer several working demonstrations to Bay Area university art classes, in an effort to create broad awareness and understanding of his work.

Hayashi began his formal training at the age of 14 in the traditional silver craft of Akita. First and second-place finishes in the prestigious Akita Prefecture Student Exhibition led the way to display of his craft in Japan's annual fine arts exhibition. His works have become a part of that show for fifteen years, and have earned him the distinguished status of president of the Akita Prefecture Arts and Crafts Institute.

Stainless steel was used extensively in the rebuilding of Japan following World War II. Hayashi's father worked in the metal industry, and the young artist became fascinated with this valuable new material. He experimented with it for nearly ten years before finally entering his first stainless steel pieces into national competition. "What excited me from an early age was the challenge of working with a new material. At first, I hammered at the metal timidly and was met by rejection from this cold, smug medium. This only increased my passion to master it," said Hayashi.

Surrealism, a work by Hayashi Biko

A traditionally difficult metal to work with, stainless steel has not only shaped Hayashi's mental approach to his art, but his physical being as well. He has become a man of exceptional strength from years of wielding heavy hammers. His works are noted for the combination of brute force and intricate design created by the difficult task of forceful blows in reverse, from behind the surface of the work. This procedure allows for an unblemished "canvas" of great power and boldness, transforming the flat sheet of metal into a luminous textural work of art.

The exhibit, entitled "Hikari," meaning "Light," is open from 11am to 6pm on Mondays, Fridays, Saturdays, and Sundays, and from 11am to 9pm on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays, October 8 through 31. Admission is $4 for adults, $2.50 for senior citizens and students. Children under 12 are admitted free. Fort more information, call 243-0128.
